WORLD TUBERCULOSIS (TB) DAY AWARENESS

12,000-FOOT MOUNTAIN HIKE

Community awareness / Tuberculosis prevention

TOTAL PROJECT EXPENDITURE

US$650.00

Activity Overview

01 PROJECT SUMMARY

Equitable Medicaid and Clinical Research (EMCR) organized a symbolic 12,000-foot mountain hike to commemorate World Tuberculosis (TB) Day. The activity brought together more than 100 participants to raise awareness about tuberculosis, encourage early testing and treatment, and promote support for affected families.

02 PARTICIPATION & ACTIVITIES

Participants included students from Baze University, volunteers, representatives of government agencies, nonprofit organizations, and members of the public. The climb represented the difficulties faced by people affected by TB, including delayed diagnosis, treatment barriers, and stigma.

03 PUBLIC HEALTH MESSAGES

The event highlighted the risk of TB transmission from untreated pulmonary disease, the importance of early diagnosis and completing prescribed treatment, and the need to support rather than isolate affected families. The campaign also drew attention to gaps in public awareness, healthcare access, and resources for TB prevention and care in Nigeria.

04 REPORTED PARTICIPATION

100+

Participants joined the awareness hike

Students, volunteers, public agencies and nonprofits

05 CONCLUSION

The event provided a public platform for TB education and community participation. EMCR continues to support awareness, early diagnosis, accessible treatment, and efforts to reduce discrimination against people living with tuberculosis. Campaign message: Yes! We Can End TB.
